MUSEUM'S ACTIVITIES.

Work in New York in which Henry W. Kent is now interested.

Secretary Henry W. Kent, formerly curator of Slater museum, Norwich, reviewed the educational work of the Metropolitan Museum of Art for 1916 in a report last week to the committee in charge of that museum's activity.

At the meetings of the Eastern Art Association and the American Association of Museums papers were read dealing with the relation of the museum to the schools, and a day was given to discussion of methods of teaching applicable to museums of art and science. Sessions of the Federation of Women's clubs and the National Education association were held in the museum and special opportunities were given for the enjoyment of the collections with the aid of the museum's instructors.

In the two weeks of enforced delay in the opening of the city schools in September owing to influenza the museum arranged for instruction of teachers, through the board of city superintendents, and audiences of teachers numbering 3,000 in all heard lectures on the purpose, methods and facilities of co-operative work with the public schools.

Having thus cultivated friendly relations with teachers, the museum organized informal meetings from time to time for the study of special needs and the discussion of plans for art education in the schools. Use of the museum collections became general among teachers, many of whom learned how to conduct classes through the museum without the aid of instructors. Visits to the museum in small groups followed lectures in the schools. Classes that made successive visits, Mr. Kent reports, showed the effects in the training of taste, applying to manners as well as to aesthetic perceptions. The number of children visitors was about $900.

Various groups of students arranged weekly meetings running through five or six months. Library facilities in book and illustrative material helped these undertakings, and constant advantage is taken of opportunity for the study of original in the museum collections. Classes and exhibitions were held in the museum by students in the Teachers' college, the School of Applied Design, the Women's Ethical Culture Art school and the De Witt Clinton, Wadleigh and Stuyvesant High schools.

GEARY PRESIDED AT SESSION OF HOUSE

Act Passed in the House Providing a Maximum Ten Year

Penalty for Any Person Who Shall Steal a Motor Vehicle

—Act Forbidding Fishing in the Ashland Cotton Company's Reservoir and the Griswold Paper Company's Reservoir Has Been Repealed—Senate Rejects Strike Bill

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, March 13.—Clark Kenealy called the house to order and it was announced that Speaker Healey would be absent for the balance of the week and that under the rules it was necessary for the house to appoint a speaker pro tem. On motion of Mr. Huxford, the republican house leader, Mr. Healey of Cheshire was chosen. He called Mr. Geary of Waterford, the democratic leader, to the chair, who presided during the session. In the prayer by Chaplain Benedict reference was made to Mr. Kelley of Killingly, who is ill with pneumonia. The speaker's absence is due to the death of his brother, Thomas Healey.

New London Bonds.

The committee on finance reported favorably the act authorizing the city of New London to issue bonds of $40,000 for school purposes. Tabled for calendar.

Favorable report was made on the act exempting from taxation the Eugene Atwood fund.

Bills Rejected.

From the finance committee came unfavorable reports on these matters, and the reports were accepted and bills rejected: The payment of taxes in choice of action, taxation of telephone companies, taxation of savings banks, collection and assessment of the personal tax.

Concurred With Senate.

The house concurred with the senate in the rejection of these bills upon unfavorable report of the committee on education: The bill limiting the enrollment in public schools, and the erection of school buildings, which called for state aid.

Restricting Fishing.

A bill was rejected upon unfavorable report which would prevent a person fishing in fresh water with more than 20 lines and taking more than 30 fish in a day, between 8 in the evening and 5 in the morning.

Auto Bills Killed.

Bills were rejected concerning automobiles as follows: The registry numbering, the use and speed of automobiles, and to change the present law in regard to automobiles stopping when nearing standing trolley cars; that automobile owners carry liability insurance; concerning the appointment of traffic officers.

Hedges Undisturbed.

An act that would prohibit at the intersection of any highway a hedge or fence more than three feet in height above the level of the highway was rejected.

Veterans Are Favored.

An act was favorably reported which provides that no soldier, sailor or marine who holds position in any public building of the state shall be removed except for incompetency or misconduct. Calendar.

Factory Inspection.

The act concerning notices given by the department of factory inspection was amended so that notice can be served by registered mail addressed to the party in interest at his last known place of address, and that returns shall be made to the commissioner of labor and factory inspection.

Fraternal Benefit Societies.

An amendment to the act concerning fraternal benefit societies was taken from the calendar which provides that the insurance commissioner or any person he may appoint shall examine, at least once in every year, the affairs of any domestic fraternal benefit society, and shall have access to all books, papers and documents of such society, and may summon and examine under oath any officer, agent or employee or other person, in relation to the affairs of the society.

Automobile Insurance.

An act was taken from the calendar and passed providing that any corporation authorized to engage in the business of fire insurance in this state may insure owners of automobiles against any of the hazards of fire, explosion, theft, or loss by burglary or by burglary or theft, or both, but not against loss by reason of bodily injury resulting from the maintenance or use of such automobile.

Incarceration of Inebriates.

An amendment to the act providing that receipt of notice of the superior court, any criminal court of common pleas, or district city, borough, police or town court, or justice of the peace, having criminal jurisdiction may commit to said farm any common drunkard or any person who has been three times arrested for intoxication, or who is an inebriate from the use of any narcotic or spirituous or intoxicating liquor.

Fees Are Increased.

An act taken from the calendar and passed increases the fees of clerks of courts, other than probate courts, to $5 for recording each judgment in appeal cases from inferior courts, and $10 in divorce proceedings that are undetected and in foreclosures.

Judges of Probate.

An act concerning courts of probate reads as follows: There shall be a court of probate in each probate district held by one judge elected biennially for that purpose, whose term of office shall commence on the Wednesday after the first Monday in January next succeeding his election; and such judge, before entering upon his duties, shall be sworn and shall record his certificate of election upon the records of his court, and shall appoint a clerk who shall be sworn and shall record his certificate of election upon the records of his court, and shall appoint a clerk who shall be sworn and shall record his certificate of election upon the records of his court.

Commitment Conditions.

The Connecticut Reformatory act, as further amended to read: Any proper officer having a warrant for the commitment of any person to said reformatory shall execute the same by delivering such person and warrant to the superintendent of said reformatory within one week after sentence is imposed. Such officer shall receive for transportation of such person twenty-five cents per mile, to be taxed and paid in the same manner as other costs in criminal cases.

Paroled Prisoners.

The act concerning the Connecticut Reformatory was amended as follows: Any paroled inmate who shall be returned to said reformatory for violation of his parole may be detained in said reformatory for a period equal to the unexpired term of his sentence at the date of his release on parole or may again be paroled by said reformatory board of parole.

Waste Materials.

An act was passed, which provides that the selection of any town not having an incorporated city within its limits, are authorized to pass by-laws prohibiting the throwing or placing of waste materials and paper in the highways of such town and regulating the disposal of the same and providing a penalty not exceeding ten dollars for violation of the provisions of such by-laws. Before such by-laws shall become effective the selection shall cause a copy thereof to be placed on the public signpost in such town, and a like copy shall be published for three weeks, successively, in some newspaper having a circulation in such town.

Motor Vehicle Theft.

Here is the complete text of the act concerning the theft of motor vehicles, taken from the calendar: "Every person who shall steal any motor vehicle shall be imprisoned not more than ten years." Passed.

Rogers Lake Fishing.

An act was passed which provides that no person shall take or attempt to take any fish from the waters of Rogers lake in the towns of Lyme and Old Lyme from December first to March first, both inclusive in any other way than by a rod and line held in the hand.

Final Jurisdiction.

An amendatory act taken from the calendar provides that no justice of the peace shall have final jurisdiction of any prosecution for crime the punishment for which shall be imprisonment in the state prison; but in a prosecution for any crime the punishment for which shall be a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or imprisonment in the state prison for not more than five years, or both, any city, town, borough or police court may take final jurisdiction thereof, whenever, upon conviction, the court shall determine that no greater punishment ought to be imposed than that which it may lawfully inflict; provided, in all cases the accused may appeal from the judgment so rendered as is provided by law in other criminal cases. Passed.

United Workers.

The charter of the United Workers of Norwich, was amended in the house, so that the organization may hold real estate to the value of $200,000.

Foxes Included.

The act concerning bounty on wild animals was amended so as to include foxes, leaving the bounty optional with the towns. Temporarily tabled on motion of Mr. Bakeman. An amendment was offered striking out the word "skunk," as this animal was protected under another bill. The bill was accepted after considerable discussion.

Fishing Permitted.

The provisions of section 3144 of the general statutes, prohibiting fishing in the Ashland Cotton Company's reservoir and the Griswold Paper Company's reservoir in the town of Griswold, are repealed, by an act passed in the house.

Summoning Jurors.

There is on the calendar a bill which provides that jurors selected for jury duty may be summoned by the clerk or assistant clerk of the court in which they are to serve by sending by registered mail postage prepaid, a summons addressed to such juror.

Criminal Allegations.

An act taken from the calendar and passed provides that whenever an indictment, information or complaint shall be pending before any court, a conviction may be had for any offense sufficiently alleged therein, including an attempt to commit any such offense, if the accused may be convicted, or if the state may accept a plea of guilty for any of said offenses.
